Western's big weekend

► About 10,000 alumni expected on campus as UWO gears up for homecoming-weekend events

Purple, proud and pumped.

That just about sums up the atmosphere as Western students get ready for homecoming weekend.

Simply put: "It's huge," said Sasha Madhavji, a Western student and homecoming co-ordinator for the University Students' Council.

"(It's about) showcasing our pride and instilling that in our students."

It's also about tent parties, pancake-and-keg breakfasts, football and parades.

Students have been in purple mode all week — literally cleaning out a USC booth selling homecoming apparel.

But the real action starts Friday, when floats will be built for Saturday's homecoming parade.

The parade, aside from partying, is one of the weekend's biggest highlights. It starts at 9:30 a.m. outside Centennial Hall and makes its way back to campus. The Mustangs' homecoming football game against York University starts at 1 p.m. at TD Waterhouse Stadium.

While current students are showing all their purple spirit, thousands of alumni are expected to flood back onto campus. In some cases, they'll be reliving their glory days with alumni sports matches.

Other events will honour some of the school's most distinguished former students.

Those include Ted Hessel, a 1967 graduate who will receive the college's highest alumni honour, and Sarah Richardson, a 1993 graduate and Home and Garden Television personality.

As the homecoming festivities get rolling at Western, London police are reminding people to play it safe.

Mainly, police are reminding people to keep alcohol off the roads.

London is about to go purple. At least that's how leaders of the Shine the Light on Woman Abuse campaign want things to go.

Although the 30-day effort doesn't start until Nov. 1, the event lineup was announced Thursday and the London Abused Women's Centre has started selling a little bit of everything purple — from light bulbs to bracelets.

Purple — billed as a symbol of courage and survival — has come to symbolize the fight against abuse like pink symbolizes breast cancer.

Showing support for the fight is a portion of the campaign's goal. It's also an opportunity to raise awareness about the number of women who suffer abuse and where that abuse happens, said Megan Walker, executive director of the women's centre.

"This is an issue that impacts all women ... only because of their gender," Walker said. "The most dangerous place for a woman continues to be their home."

Shine the Light is in its second year and got its start after two London police officers learned about a similar campaign in New York. Police will be supporting the campaign by placing purple decals on patrol vehicles during November.

This year's campaign literature has been translated into French, Spanish and Arabic to make it more multicultural, Walker said.

Relax. Play your game, move the puck. He's got your back.

"With Housie in nets, it's unreal," Knights defenceman Troy Donnay said about Michael Houser. "You can make mistakes — even though you don't want to — and you know he's there for you."

"Just having him back there, it's a completely different mental aspect of the game because you just trust him so much more."

Two games into the season, Houser has been one puck from perfect.

Heading into Thursday's games, Houser has faced more shots (82) and stopped more (81) than any other goalie in the OHL.

His goals-against average is so small, it's barely an average at all: 0.48.

But enough numbers. Let's hear from Houser.

"You get points throughout the season when you feel you're in the zone, and that's how I've felt to start the season," he said before a practice recently at the

JLC. "There's probably no better way to start the season than that. I want to keep that throughout the season — consistency is my goal."

Houser hopes his stellar play will land him a contract with an NHL team. He spent more than a week at the Philadelphia Flyers camp this summer.

The Flyers told him they had six goalies under contract, but three of them become free agents after the 2011-12 season.

"They said if I play well, then I have a chance there," said Houser, 19.

"It's hard not to think about it, but then again you just have to go out and play your game because if you don't play well and you have a bad season, then nothing positive is going to come out of that."

Knights notes

- One goal. Michael Houser has only allowed one goal this season and was named CHL goaltender of the week
- NHL Camps. All Knights players attending NHL camps have returned to London. The final two back: Jarred Tinordi (from Montreal on Wednesday) and Scott Harrington (from Pittsburgh on Thursday).

- Action. The Knights (2-0-0-0) return to action Friday, 7:30 p.m. at the John Labatt Centre against the Sudbury Wolves (0-2-0-0).

Alleged banana thrower 'mortified', lawyer says

- Chris Moorhouse was officially charged Wednesday
- If convicted, he faces a maximum fine of $2,000

A London man who threw a banana at a black hockey player during a shootout was only trying to keep his favourite team in the game and had no idea his actions could be construed as racist, his lawyer said Thursday.

Faisal Joseph said Chris Moorhouse is "mortified" and overcome with remorse for his role in the incident, which sparked an international furor, drew condemnation from the NHL and led to an apology from Mayor Joe Fontana.

Joseph said Moorhouse, 26, was caught up in the drama of an overtime shootout when he lobbed the banana at Philadelphia Flyers forward Wayne Simmonds on Sept. 22. Simmonds had just forced the game into overtime with a third-period goal and was approaching Detroit goalie Jordan Pearce during a tie-breaking shootout. Detroit went on to win the pre-season game 4-3.

Joseph said Moorhouse has freely confessed to throwing the fruit, which he bought at London's John Labatt Centre where the game was played.

Moorhouse had no idea that hurling bananas at black athletes could be seen as hateful or racially motivated, said Joseph.

Tweets offer glimpse into mood patterns

Twitter confirms it: People tend to wake up in a good mood and are happiest on weekends.

The fast-paced forum is offering scientists a peek at real-time, presumably little-filtered human behaviour and thoughts. Cornell University researchers turned to the microblog to study mood and found a pretty consistent pattern.

The researchers analyzed English-language tweets from 2.4 million people in 84 countries, more than 500 million of the brief, conversation-like exchanges sent over two years. They used a computer program that searched for words indicating positive mood — happy, enthusiastic, brilliant — or negative mood — sad, anxious, fear.

What they found: Unless you're a night owl, a positive attitude peaks early in the morning and again near midnight, but starts to dip midmorning before rising again in the evening.

Aha, you might think, going to work and related hassles like traffic explain that pattern. After all, there was more positive tweeting on the weekend.

Twitter tales

► The researchers also examined tweets in the United Arab Emirates, where Friday and Saturday are considered the weekend. Sure enough, they found the same daily pattern, even though the workday tends to begin earlier there than in the West, and the same weekend pattern.

► There are cautions about studying Twitter postings: Their authors tend to be younger, and may be more affluent and better educated than average.

Work-related stress may play some role but it can't explain why that same mid-day dip occurs on the weekend, too, said lead researcher Scott Golder, a Cornell graduate student.

Instead, the pattern probably is due to the effects of sleep and our 24-hour biological clock, the so-called circadian rhythms that signal when it's time to sleep and to wake, Golder and Cornell sociologist Michael Macy reported. Their study appears in Friday's edition of the journal Science.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper has stood up for his embattled defence minister.

Peter MacKay was under fire once again yesterday in the House of Commons over his use of Challenger VIP jets, racking up as much as $3 million in flights since he was appointed in 2007.

He's been criticized over the last couple of weeks for his use of a search-and-rescue helicopter to pick him up at a Newfoundland fishing lodge following a vacation.

New Democrats say the high-flying minister should have his wings clipped.

"He goes there to show that we understand their sacrifice, we share their pain and we care about them and that's why the minister of Defence is so highly regarded," Harper told the House of Commons during question period.

Meanwhile, the ethics commissioner told a parliamentary committee yesterday that MacKay could be in contravention of MPs' conflict-of-interest code because of where he spent his vacation.

The Newfoundland trip was partly spent at a fishing camp owned by the chairman of a Crown corporation.

Under questioning from the Liberals, Mary Dawson told an all-party committee some rules may have been broken.

Pop stars woo fans via Facebook games

► Social media is the new way to interact and connect with fans: Iglesias
► Cityville most popular application on Facebook with 71-million users

Pop stars are lining up to make their debut in Facebook games from online game maker Zynga.

First came Dr. Dre and Lady Gaga. Next week, an avatar of singer Enrique Iglesias will join CityVille, Zynga's most popular title.

Starting Tuesday, CityVille players on Facebook will be able to interact with Iglesias's character when he visits their cities. They'll get to collect items the singer is known for and watch previews of his latest music video.

Zynga declined to give financial terms of the deal or say whether it plans more celebrity integrations, citing the fact that it is in a typical "quiet period" before its planned initial public offering. The San Francisco-based company filed registration papers in July for an IPO, and it's expected to make its public debut this fall.

Iglesias said his team approached Zynga with the idea for a game integration and was involved from the beginning on the design and deciding what characters could do. They can collect virtual hats, boots, bling and a speed boat — representing the time Iglesias lived in Miami and owned one. "I thought the fans would get a kick out of it," he said.

CityVille, which is available on Facebook and the fledgling Google Plus, lets players build up and run virtual cities complete with farms, buildings and other infrastructure found in a real city. The game is free to play; Zynga makes money by charging for virtual items players use to decorate their cities and to get ahead in the game. The Iglesias tie-in will be available only on the Facebook version of the game.

"It's the first time Zynga has had such an entertainer being an integral part of the game," said Scott Koenigsberg, director of business strategy for CityVille at Zynga.

Iglesias said he has played CityVille — once. He has an addictive personality and, since being inseparable from Nintendo's Mario Bros. as a child, has stayed away from video games, he said. "I know that if I start playing it, I won't get any work done and I'd just be on it all the time," he said.

In addition to the Iglesias avatar, the game will feature a new single featuring rapper Pitbull, I Like How It Feels. Players will also be able to unlock a building called Euphoria Arena — referring to Iglesias' current tour and album.

Supreme Court to hear 'value for signal' case

The Supreme Court of Canada says it will step into the battle over whether broadcasters can charge cable and satellite providers for carrying their programs. The high court has granted leave to appeal in a case that involves whether the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission has the right to establish a system that would allow broadcasters to charge for their signals.

The CRTC itself referred the matter to the Federal Court when it announced its plans for a so-called "value for signal" regime.

The Federal Court of Appeal previously ruled in a split 2-1 decision that CRTC had the power to set up such a system.

The cable and satellite industries are appealing the decision, arguing that the value-for-signal issue falls under the Copyright Act and the royalties system and is beyond the CRTC jurisdiction.

"Conventional television stations must have a regulatory framework that allows them to survive on their own merits, regardless of whether or not they are integrated with cable and satellite companies," said Kevin Crull, president of Bell Media.

Canadians wary of job market

The Conference Board of Canada says its index of consumer confidence increased only slightly in September as Canadians began to worry more about job growth.

The think-tank said Thursday its consumer confidence index rose 0.3 of a point in September to 75, narrowly avoiding a fifth consecutive monthly decline.

Economists have warned in recent weeks that the global economic outlook is not good and that government debt problems in Europe and the U.S. could trigger another recession, undercutting employment.

The survey found that attitudes towards the job market have deteriorated. Only 14.8 per cent of respondents said they expect there will be more jobs in the next six months, a drop of 1.4 percentage points from August. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Privacy on Facebook challenged, again

Nine privacy groups have sent a joint letter to the Federal Trade Commission saying it should investigate the ways Facebook collects data about users' online activity after recent changes to its site.

The Electronic Privacy

Information Center, the American Civil Liberties Union and other groups sent the letter to the FTC Wednesday.

The groups say changes Facebook made last week give it far greater ability to disclose users' personal information to businesses than it used to have.

Facebook users can now consent just once and have applications continuously share on Facebook the music they are listening to or the articles they are reading.

Facebook says that change gives users control over what apps they use and what information is shared.

The letter does not constitute a formal complaint.

▶ Anna Faris, centre, is searching for lasting love in What's Your Number.

It's all in the numbers

▶ Anna Faris shines as the lead in What's Your Number? despite a lacklustre raunch-com script ▶ Movie's attitudes about sex a little dated for 2011

Richard: Mark, I'm not going to suggest What's Your Number? is a great, or even good movie. It has a typical rom-com plot gussied up with some Judd Apatow style barbs and some gratuitous shots of its almost naked star but it also has Anna Faris, and for me that's enough. She has crack comic timing and an unpredictable way with a line that takes a Kathryn Heigl level script and turns it into something watchable. What did you think?

Mark: Without Anna Faris, this movie would have gone directly to the DVD bin. She's so good I was able to sit through the movie and actually laugh a few times. But I resent the movie for wanting it both ways: on the surface it seems like a raunch-com but underneath beats the heart of the typical story of a young woman who just wants to get married and settle down. And by the way, since when did bedding 20 guys in your entire life make anyone a slut? Maybe if they were all at once...

RC: Ha! Spoken like someone who has the updated edition of The Joy of Sex handy. It's a strange movie that uses both the standard old cellphone switcheroo plot device and the laughs of an Apatow movie or the heart... but once again, I'll say it, it has Anna Faris.

MB: It also has Chris Evans, in a stock role that only his agent could love. But I did feel there was some genuine chemistry between him and Ms. Faris, especially in the scenes where they get hot 'n' sweaty. Romantic comedies like this one usually have a number of well acted, well written secondary characters, but they were completely absent from this picture, unless you count Andy Samberg's great and ridiculous cameo.

RC: A love scene with a puppet and Andy Samberg is just one of the things — did I mention Anna Faris? — that make this movie almost special. There are just enough funny scenes (and shots of Evans's abs) to almost make this an in-the-pocket rom com, but then the good stuff is followed by long stretches of by-the-book writing. It's a shame to see this kind of potential wasted.

MB: I also resented the dated sexual politics of the movie. The male lead can sleep with as many partners as he likes and he's a rake. If a woman like Faris tries the same thing, she's a slut. This is old-school thinking, and shame on the movie for buying into it, and not challenging it.

It's hard not to be at least a little cynical about politics.
Yeah. Sure, sure. I mean, at the end of the day you see folks just losing sight of what the point is. The point is to lead the country in the best way forward for as many people as possible. But it's so alluring. It must be just incredibly seductive and alluring, the lifestyle and the influence and the access and the perks.

A harmless story about a young Indo-Canadian striving against his immigrant family's ideals to become a pro hockey player, Breakaway is an impressive first feature for writer and star Vinay Virmani.

Not only does he land a likeable international cast including Rob Lowe and funnyman Russell Peters, but he and director Rob Lieberman mostly keep it colourful and light-hearted with broad gags and even a Bollywood musical number to maintain a fun pace. ● STEVE GOW

🌐🌐🌐½

Cancer is no laughing matter, everyone knows that. But 50/50, the story of Adam (Joseph Gordon-Levitt) a clean living guy diagnosed with a rare form of cancer, breaks taboos left and right. Luckily it's tempered with great performances, a smart script and real emotion. There's not a false moment thanks to a script written by Will Reiser, the real-life inspiration for the story. Reiser — along with actors Gordon-Levitt, Anna Kendrick and Seth Rogen — find just the right balance between mortality, romance and cancer jokes in a script that will have you laughing and crying at the same time.

COMING UP WITH A BAND NAME IS NOT AN EASY TASK

SOUND CHECK

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONEWS.CA

One of the most hideous tasks of being in a band is coming up with a name.

Consider:

1. Everyone in the band has to be happy with it. Good luck with that. Many baby bands have broken up because they couldn't agree on what to call themselves. Finding that consensus is torturous.

2. It has to be catchy, easy to remember and ► Jack White of the Raconteurs. What do you think of that band name?

easy to spell. Your name is your brand, so it has to be something that captures the essence of the group's sound and image without sounding too stupid or pretentious.

3. Can you get the domain name? Before the Internet, this never used to be a problem. But if you're going to have a proper online presence, you need a proper Internet address. Oasis had to make due with Oasis.com (notice the extra "i" because a dating site already had Oasis.com and wasn't about to give it up.)

4. It must lend itself to good graphic design. Hey, if you can't make a cool logo from it, then you're limiting your appeal. Nine Inch Nails, Linkin Park, Led Zeppelin and the lips-and-tongue logo of the Rolling Stones are all brilliant examples.

5. And, most importantly, it has to be unique and unused by anyone anywhere in the world currently or in the past.

Sounds Like. State of Shock

Dinner date — with whom and why?

Kadooh: Big Bird.
Cam: Humpty Dumpty. That'd be a great omelette. Or Colonel Sanders. I could go for some chicken.

What's your greatest fear?

Kadooh: Erectile dysfunction. I'm going with that.
Cam: Not a lot of fears, per se, 'cause everything's just kind of a risk in life, and I guess if you don't try it you're not gonna learn what not to do and what not to try. But I guess losing a loved one is my biggest fear.

To view Metro's interview with Cam & Kadooh, visit metronews.ca/scene

What's your idea of a perfect day?

Cam: Somewhere on tour in front of a lot fans, playing a great show and having everyone singing back at you. Just having a good time — sitting back with the band and having some beers, probably poolside somewhere.

Where do you find inspiration?

Kadooh: Day-to-day life and people along the way.
Cam: Fans coming up to you after shows and saying that a particular song really meant something to them.

What's the last thing you say to yourself before a show?

Cam: Too late now!
Kadooh: Good luck.

Your last meal — what is it?

Cam: Chocolate. Everything chocolate. Chocolate cake, chocolate ice cream ... 'cause at that point, the intolerance doesn't matter.

Ask the Expert: Mortgage Insurance

As a Financial Advisor with Sun Life Financial, I cannot express how thrilled I am to be back in the Forest City. After graduating from Carleton University with a degree in Economics, I knew my passion and goal in life was to assist and help families re-gain control of their financial matters and have an impact on their overall success and happiness.

With a strong background of financial advising in Ottawa and working in management for one of the leading providers of insurance and investments in Canada, I have seen all too often individuals and families left unprotected. Whether it be the unforeseen loss of a loved one or an illness which has led negatively to a lower than par quality of life, families need to be financially protected. In our lifetime alone, we have seen a massive shift in government benefits leading us to be pro-active in determining and implementing a proper financial plan to fit our unique lifestyle.

I look forward to getting involved with the London community and meeting with families to help them become better protected against the unknowns in life as well as achieving success along the way to retirement.

Is Demi headed back to real-life Cougar Town?

► Reports say Demi Moore and Ashton Kutcher's marriage is almost done

The marriage between Demi Moore and Ashton Kutcher is reportedly all but over, with just a potential $290 million divorce battle standing in their way, according to Star magazine.

Kutcher's alleged frolicking in San Diego last weekend — during their sixth anniversary — was apparently the last straw.

"Ashton was a serial cheater, and Demi just couldn't take it anymore. She didn't deserve to live that way. It's a painful time for Demi," a source says.

"It was definitely a long time coming, but they're finally done for good."

► Ashton Kutcher and Demi Moore

And if the couple's recent trip to New York was any indication, the split has been in the works.

"As far as I know, Demi ended up staying at her place on the Upper West Side and Ashton was (at the hotel) by himself," a source says.

"It was obvious to everyone around them that things were completely over between them and that they are just putting on a show until they officially split."

► Jay-Z

Does Jay know what girls like?

Beyoncé admits that her pregnancy might be driving a wedge between her and husband Jay-Z — at least where his cologne is concerned.

"I smell everything," she tells ET Canada. "If it smells bad, I smell it. My husband's fragrance, his one that I always love, I hate right now."

And while the pop star claims to not know the sex of the baby, sources tell Us Weekly that the couple has already picked out some pink Louboutin baby booties — and a name.

"Jay told his sister to order a whole wardrobe of baby-girl clothes," a source tells Us Weekly.

Recreating Rioja's vibe

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA
TWITTER: @THEREALWINEGUY

If you love wine and have never been to Spain, you need to pack your corkscrew and go. I raved earlier this year after my first visit but, you know what, I just can't stop.

Wine to the Spaniards is like beer to us Canadians — especially in the country's most famous grape growing region of Rioja. You hit the town with your peeps, pick a local wine bar, have a glass of red along with a little tapas then move on the next spot and repeat.

You can recreate the vibe at home. The internet has dozens of sites dedicated to simple tapas recipes and well-made Rioja wines are easy to find.

The Montecillo 2008 Crianza ($14.95 - $19.99) is a perfect introduction to the region. Aged over two years, the juice is fresh and lively with a well-balanced cherry fruit and cedar-esque wood expression. It's a perfect partner for croquettes and empanadas and would make a great turkey wine for the upcoming Thanksgiving holiday. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. Just keep on crackin'

► Scrambled, hard boiled or sunny side up – however you like your eggs, there are ways to make them more creative ► Kids will love these ideas

Egg Salad Creatures

Make silly creatures or faces with a mound of egg salad and some imagination. Use whatever edibles you have growing in the garden or extras in the fridge to fashion sprout hair, olive eyes, pickle noses and maybe even a cucumber moustache.

Set out garnishes and let the kids get creative by making their own variations on the faces and body parts of the little creatures.

Creature Garnish

Here are decoration ideas for Egg Salad Creatures.

- Hair
Grated or string cheese, grated carrots, sprouts or curly lettuce
- Eyes
Olives, cucumber, pickle slices or raisins
- Nose
Slice of gherkin, pickle, pieces of carrot
- Mouth
Wedge of cherry tomato, carrot or celery stick
- Ears
Sliced cucumber or tomato
- Whiskers or antennae
Carrot or celery sticks or sweet pepper strips

► Make two creatures with this recipe.

Preparation:

- 1 Peel and finely chop hard-cooked eggs and place in mixing bowl. Add mayonnaise, mustard, and salt; stir gently together until combined.
- 2 Mound egg salad in two round scoops on plates.
- 3 Using pieces of vegetables, cheese, olives, pickles, etc., make features or body parts, create silly creatures or faces. (To make creature and face in photo, use cucumber slices for ears or body scales; wedge of cherry tomato for mouth; pieces of carrot for whiskers or tail; piece of string cheese for hair; raisins and sliced gherkins or olives for eyes; and cherry tomato or piece of cucumber for nose.) Serve with crackers.

THE CANADIAN PRESS/ EGG FARMERS OF ONTARIO

Ingredients:

- 4 hard-cooked eggs, peeled
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) salad dressing
- 5 ml (1 tsp) prepared yellow mustard
- Salt, to taste
- 1 small cucumber, cut into

- 10 slices
- 2 cherry tomatoes
- 1 baby carrot, cut into thin matchstick pieces
- 1 piece (2.5 cm/1 inch) string cheese
- 2 raisins
- 2 slices gherkin or small pickle
- 2 slices olive

Egg Flowers

By slicing hard-cooked eggs and placing them on a platter in a circle to form a flower, adding some cucumber stems and a cherry tomato centre, you can make an edible garden.

Preparation:

- 1 Use egg slicer to cut hard-cooked eggs into even slices or let your child cut slices with a plastic knife.
- 2 Place slices on plate in a circle to form flowers.
- 3 Add sliced cucumber to create additional flower petals. Use string cheese, cucumber, cherry tomatoes or sweet peppers and veggie dip as flower centres.

- 4 Add celery sticks for flower stems and green pepper and broccoli for leaves. At base of flowers, place dollop of hummus and sprinkle with sprouts for grass.

Egg-cellent

Here are some tips for peeling and storing hard-cooked eggs:

- To peel a hard-cooked egg, crack shell all over by gently tapping on hard surface. Roll egg between hands to loosen shell. Start peeling at large end of egg.

- Cook 12 eggs at start of week to save time when you want a quick snack or to make a sandwich filling. You can keep hard-cooked eggs in the fridge for up to a week. THE CANADIAN PRESS/ EGG FARMERS OF ONTARIO

Wild night like no other

► 'That was probably the most dramatic day in the history of the game,' says Rangers' Michael Young

Jim Leyland was still dazed a day later. So were baseball fans everywhere, trying to explain one of the wackiest wrap-ups to the sport's regular season.

Pitch by pitch, the play-off picture flipped. Startling collapses and stunning rallies left fans bleary-eyed and a little exhausted.

Midnight came, along with more madness. When it was over, Tampa Bay and St. Louis were in, Boston and Atlanta were out.

It was a harrowing task just keeping track of the four teams vying for wild-card berths in the National and American Leagues on Wednesday, the final day of the regular season.

Leyland, the 66-year-old manager of the Detroit Tigers, was riveted watching Boston and Tampa Bay play their games.

"You can't explain this to people, the emotions in baseball. Even from our side. Just watching it. We became fans," Leyland said. "I don't know how it all happened. I still don't. But it was amazing."

The Yankees took a 7-0 lead into the eighth inning. But the Rays somehow rallied to make it 7-6 before little-used Dan Johnson — batting only .108 this year — launched a tying, pinch-hit home run with two outs and two strikes in the bottom of the ninth.

Evan Longoria ended it

"The bottom line is, we failed. And our owners deserve better, the fans deserve better and we have to fix it. We're going to take a look in the mirror and see if we're the ones to fix it."

RED SOX GM THEO EPSTEIN ON HIS TEAM'S COLLAPSE

in the 12th with a homer just inside the left-field foul pole for an 8-7 win that gave the Rays the AL wild-card spot and capped their rally from a nine-game deficit against Boston in the final 3 ½ weeks.

Ace Red Sox reliever Jonathan Papelbon took a 3-2 lead into the ninth at Baltimore. He was one strike away from finishing when the Orioles struck, and Robert Andino hit a single that left-fielder Carl Crawford couldn't quite snag. The Orioles won 4-3.

The Braves let their last chance get away, too. Ahead of St. Louis by 10 ½ games in late August, Atlanta went into the final day of the regular season tied with the Cardinals for the NL wild-card.

St. Louis won early, leaving it up to the Braves. But rookie closer Craig Kimbrel blew a ninth-inning

Crosby expects to join Pens on opening trip, likely won't play

Sidney Crosby wouldn't miss a trip to Western Canada, even if he almost certainly won't play.

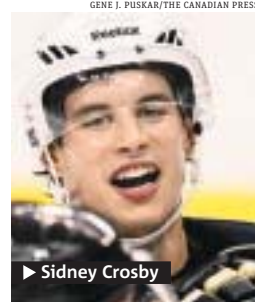

Crosby expects to accompany the Pittsburgh Penguins on their season-opening road swing next week, despite not being far enough along in his concussion rehabilitation to play. Crosby, who last played Jan. 5, still hasn't been cleared for contact during practice — a necessary step before he can resume his career.

Because Crosby would miss practices if he doesn't make the trip, he is expected to travel unless doctors decide he should continue rehabilitation in Pittsburgh.

The Penguins leave Tuesday to play in Vancouver on Oct. 6, Calgary on Oct. 8 and Edmonton on Oct. 9.
